

Kiwi Doodle's

A Kiwi Doodle is a lovable family pet with a goofy loving personality and a non-shedding and non-smelling fleece coat. These delightful dogs have been developed with love in the clean green shores of New Zealand and are only available by one breeder who has developed them over many years of breeding who is a very experienced and knowledgeable Labradoodle breeder.

A Kiwi Doodle is the combination of a few different dog breeds which are the multi generation Labradoodle and the Cavoodle (Miniature poodle x Cavalier King Charles Spaniel) .

These dogs come in a variety of colours from caramels, reds, chocolate, parti and solid colours with white patches.

The sizes are miniature 14" to 16" at the shoulder, weight of 8kg to 10kg and medium 16" to 18" at the shoulder, weight of 10kg to 18kg.

Kiwi Doodles have been developed by using the very healthy Labradoodle stud dog as an outcross to the gene pool for the Cavoodle so that any problems that may have been in the cavalier kings spaniel lines many generations ago (unseen) can be minimized by selective breeding process's as all of the labradoodle stud males used are fully health tested by DNA for upto 26 different diseases, so this ensures the puppies produced will not be positive of any of these disease's tested for so thus minimizing problems of the offspring and they will not go on to produce symptoms with these diseases which is very important.

These puppies are extremely gorgeous , healthy and developed as family pets, they do not smell, shed there coats and are mostly allergy and asthma friendly (if a known allergy/asthma is in the family a full labradoodle puppy may be advisable).
